INTRODUCTION TO THE SKILLSUSA KANSAS STATE LEADERSHIP AND SKILLS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Philosophy of the SkillsUSA Kansas Skills Championships

The SkillsUSA Kansas State Leadership and Skills Conference (SkillsUSA KSLSC) recognizes career and technical (CTE) students and teachers and motivates them to test their skills against standards for entry-level workers in the skilled trades with the goal of identifying the top career and technical education students in the nation. SkillsUSA KSLSC promotes quality career and technical education to industry and to the public.

Students are evaluated by representatives of business, industry, and organized labor. This direct evaluation by industry results in improvements to the relevant competencies in career and technical programs of study. Students learn firsthand the requirements of working in a timed event to established and appropriate standards, while teachers see the industry-driven standards nationwide and can update curricula. For employers, the SkillsUSA KSLSC is a positive way to convey their hiring needs and the skills required directly to educators, influencing instruction as they find a pipeline of quality employees. Working directly with students and sharing in their achievements motivates many employers.

The SkillsUSA KSLSC flows from local competitions to regional/district events, to the state competition, and then to the national event. For a select few, there is a possibility of advancing to an international competition, WorldSkills. At every level, a display of cooperation, communication, and collaboration that benefits everyone involved is highlighted. The SkillsUSA KSLSC raises awareness of the skilled trades and demonstrates the importance of career and technical education to the development of America's skilled workforce.

Principles of Operation

1. Business, industry, professional associations, and organized labor set standards for competition that are based on competencies that are appropriate for entry-level workers and that align with CTE programs. These standards are kept current through broad industry representation on technical committees.
2. One company or organization may not exclusively run or dominate a SkillsUSA KSLSC Technical Committee or competition. On each technical committee, there should be committee co-chairs from two different companies/organizations. The Coordinator of the SkillsUSA KSLSC Championships will work with each competition group that needs assistance in assembling an effective committee.
3. Continuity of personnel within committees promotes systematic improvement and long-term communication with education. However, new companies and organizations will also be recruited regularly to ensure the competitions are continuously updated, and that competitors are exposed to new technologies and equipment.
4. The SkillsUSA KSLSC policies are established to govern the operation of the SkillsUSA state competition.
5. The SkillsUSA KSLSC is a prominent state volunteer-driven event. SkillsUSA's budget does not support subsidy of a volunteer's out-of-pocket expense for participation. Therefore, technical committee members, judges and other competition volunteers must be supported by the company or organization they represent or provide their own means of financial support.

6. All items and materials donated to SkillsUSA KSLSC will become the property of SkillsUSA Kansas and will be used for educational purposes only. Any personal use of equipment or materials is a violation of SkillsUSA policy and IRS regulations. All items left over from the SkillsUSA KSLSC will be saved for the following year or distributed to local schools or community organizations for use in educational programs with the approval of the State Director.
7. Alcoholic beverages are prohibited at official functions that students attend, including dinners or offsite events held either during the day or evening.

Educational Objectives

The SkillsUSA KSLSC is an educational experience designed to improve CTE training and to provide student recognition for accomplishments. Technical committees, in addition to the SkillsUSA KSLSC and competition-related activities, may:

1. Present an educational industry seminar at the Kansas State Leadership and Skills Conference
2. Encourage business and industry members to share what they learn from the competitions and technical committees with other educators.
3. Work directly with local CTE training programs.
4. Share information about SkillsUSA KSLSC and their participation in supporting the future workforce through trade journals, company newsletters, press releases and/or at industry events to help build greater awareness of the SkillsUSA mission.

SkillsUSA CHAMPIONSHIPS COMMITTEE COMPOSITION

The SkillsUSA KSLSC Executive Committee and Championships Management Teams work together to coordinate activities.

Championships Executive Committee

1. The State Director appoints the Executive Committee, which is directly responsible and has the power to implement board policy regarding the activities of SkillsUSA KSLSC. All actions of the Executive Committee are subject to State Director approval.
2. The Executive Committee is composed of Board of Directors members, district representatives, and the State Director. A SkillsUSA staff member serves as the committee secretary. An emeritus position may also be appointed, if desired.
3. Members are appointed for a three-year term limited to one reappointment. Appointments are made by the State Director on a staggered basis to ensure continuity of leadership. The State Director reserves the right to reappoint an existing member for additional terms.
4. If, for any reason, a member becomes inactive, the State Director reserves the right to replace that person for the remainder of the three-year term.
5. All Executive Committee meetings are presided over by the Executive Committee chairperson.

The chairperson position will rotate among the co-chairpersons annually, beginning July 1 and ending June 30 of the following year.

6. District representatives must recuse themselves from the proceedings if it involves competitors or students from their school.
7. If a district representative is unable to attend KSLSC, the state director may designate a substitute representative from that district.

Roles and Responsibilities

1. Serving as the grievance committee for SkillsUSA KSLSC, reviewing formal protests filed by chapter advisors during the championships.
2. Ruling on any questions unresolved by the technical committees regarding administration of the competition.
3. Removing any technical committee chair, co-chair, or member upon the recommendation of the SkillsUSA KSLSC Championships Coordinator and in consultation with the technical committee chair and/or co-chair.
4. Serving as a consultant to the State Director.
5. Assisting the SkillsUSA KSLSC team in all management functions required to ensure a safe, orderly and successful SkillsUSA KSLSC.
6. Reviewing sponsorship proposals where several companies desire the same sponsorship within a committee and recommending appropriate action.
7. Assisting and reviewing demonstration competitions when properly submitted and providing due diligence so they can be voted on by the Board of Directors.

State Technical Committees

1. Technical committees consist of volunteer experts from business, industry and organized labor and are officially appointed by the executive committee on the recommendation of the State Director. Each technical committee should have a chair and co-chair.
2. Technical committee membership is a volunteer position, and any cost associated with being on the committee is the responsibility of the individual and/or company. Technical committee members should request their expenses be covered by their respective companies.
3. It is the responsibility of the committee to plan the technical aspects of the competition and to develop/revise the national competition project or tasks, and to secure equipment, materials and administer the competition as specified in the most current edition of the SkillsUSA Championships Technical Standards.
4. Companies desiring membership on the technical committee must participate actively in the planning process and make their reasonable contribution toward a successful SkillsUSA KSLSC.
5. Committee members who fail to actively contribute to the planning and implementation of the SkillsUSA KSLSC competition will be removed from the committee.
6. In some cases, more than one individual from a company or organization may be listed as a technical committee member. When a vote is taken to decide action, however, each company or organization has only one vote. Subject to approval of the Executive Committee, separate divisions of some organizations may be recognized as having individual voting privileges if they provide separate technical services or materials and are engaged in the planning and administration of the SkillsUSA KSLSC separately from the parent organization.

7. Individuals appointed to serve on a technical committee are considered representatives of their employer, and it is the company that is appointed to the committee. In the event the committee member changes employment, the individual should resign from the committee. If they desire to continue to serve, a request to remain on the committee must be submitted to the State Director and approved by the Executive Committee.

State Technical Committee Chairpersons

Technical committee chairpersons are experts from business, industry or organized labo. Other than by individual committee rule, there is no limit to the number of consecutive terms a chair may serve. The SkillsUSA KSLSC Executive Committee will resolve any disputes concerning the leadership of a technical committee.
